Major earthworks – Construction Update

December 2020

Dear Neighbour,

The Western Sydney Airport Major earthworks project will be shut down from Friday 18 December 2020 and returning on Monday, 4 January 2021. Minor site maintenance works will continue during this time, with security on-site at all times. Construction activities will continue for the remainder of December and recommence in January 2021.

Construction activities include:

- major earthworks
- sandstone excavation works
- remediation works
- importation of sandstone material
- water treatment and dewatering activities
- installation of permanent airport drainage
- survey and geotechnical works
- installation of non-potable water pipeline

Traffic control

Traffic controllers and signage are in place on Badgerys Creek Road, between Longleys Road and Pitt Street. For your safety please be aware of temporary speed zones and follow directions as required.

Work outside of standard construction hours

Out of hours work is required to support main construction activities. These works may cause some noise and have been assessed, with impacted residents being notified. Every effort will be made to minimise impacts to residents.

This includes locating out of hours works as far away from residents as possible, restricting intrusive activities (such as hydraulic hammering) to normal working hours, modifications to machinery such as the use of non-tonal reversing beepers, positioning of site entry and exit points, staggering work in certain areas and noise monitoring.
